ALAMA MANCHESTER CONFERENCE
24-26 NOVEMBER 2010

What's in it for me?

Attending Clinical Skills & Professional Intelligence will help us:

- Keep right up to date on clinical, legal and procedural issues
- Be aware of the highest standards in patient care and management

As the demands on occupational health physicians to operate at the top of their game remain paramount, the focus of this conference is clinical with updates on issues that are relevant to our everyday practice. As a delegate, you can expect a broad range of topics presented by high quality speakers who are experts in their respective fields. So much so, this key CPD event has been allocated a grand total of 18 accreditation points.

Clinical Skills & Professional Intelligence

offers excellent value for money plus the opportunity to network and share opinions with colleagues from across the UK. In addition, this conference will be celebrating ALAMA's 30th year with some added extras including the opportunity for a limited number of ALAMA delegates to attend the annual Lane Lecture, hosted by the University of Manchester and presented this year by Professor Jos Verbeek from the Finnish Institute of Occupational Health.

Venue

The conference will be held in Manchester's most celebrated city centre building, the historic Free Trade Hall – now the luxurious Radisson Edwardian Hotel. Key features include complimentary wireless Internet access throughout and all the facilities expected from a five star luxury hotel. The hotel is situated where the 'Peterloo Massacre' took place. As the Free Trade Hall it has hosted Gladstone, Disraeli, Churchill, Dickens, Wilde, Livingstone, Shackleton, Captain Scott and the Hallé Orchestra.
